The Aurora Studio Monolight Flashes - the Fusion Plus series - radio control

Newest technologies gathered in the most advanced Aurora series. Technical solutions such as a broad range of output, stability of power and color temperature or possibility of using duplicate lights allow the maximum creativity and repeatability.

The cooling fan and the over-heating protection circuitry protects the components from being damaged by high temperature. There is also a self-extinguishing function and a pyrex protecting dome.

A wireless radio control is also provided. The Frecon remote controller can operate up to 81 devices gathered in groups of 9 on each of the 9 channels.

Frecon remote controller (ADF162)

(sold separately)

It provides full control of flashes and photo backgrounds on the 433MHz frequency. The LCD display precisely shows the currently adjusted parameters. That allows the photographer to concentrate on photographing instead of constant wandering among the lights.
